Gentle solver,

Ah, for the lazy last lingering days of summer! On such warm and inviting occasions, made more precious by one's knowledge of their sadly imminent end, I prioritise taking as many long walks as time will allow, meandering quite aimlessly along trails that lead to ... where? For now, I neither know nor care!

Whilst wandering those seemingly directionless paths, I was inspired to create this ænigma.

The grid below represents the wild meadow over which my peregrinations took me. I desire that you should recreate there the entirety of my walking path, which comprised a single loop passing through every single square of the meadow.

As it happens, I visited each square either once or twice and, whenever twice, I passed straight through both times, crossing my path in the manner of the symbol for addition.

For your aid in this task, I have pre-filled some of the squares of the grid: pray do not alter any such givens.

Once you've completed your grid, you may move on to finding the final answer to my ænigma. Please retrace my steps, beginning in the lower-left corner and proceeding upwards. Read that square's letter and also any letter in a square where my path turned to the right. Those letters will reveal a clue to your final answer.

Good luck!
